FERNIE MAY CLOSE DOWN

VICTORIA, March 25.—Advice was received here today that the Crows' Nest Pass Coal Company would cease operation of the coal mines of Fernie, in southern British Columbia, main support of a population of 5,000 people.

Thomas Uphill, Labor member from Fernie, has given notice that he will ask the legislature that the mines be turned over to interests which will operate them.

The Crows' Nest Pass Company, it is said, intends to concentrate its operations at Michel; but there, it is stated, will not be sufficient to absorb the miners from Fernie.

Mr. Uphill declares that without mining operations Fernie will become a flag station.

KNIFE USED IN FIGHT AT MAPLE LEAF

A knife artist ran wild near Maple Leaf on Saturday night last, and as a result two men were admitted to the Bellevue hospital, suffering from very severe lacerations. One of the victims was so cut up that for a time doctors were doubtful if it would be possible to save his arm, or even his life. Practically all arteries were severed at the wrist and he had lost much blood before taken to the hospital. Sam Winarski was arrested and taken to the Blairmore jail. On Monday he appeared before Magistrate Graham, and was remanded for preliminary hearing until the victims are able to come out of hospital.

BLAIRMORE COUNCIL ALLOWED TO FUNCTION

Premature wails by The Worker that immediately a worker's candidate seized the reins of office at Blairmore, dictatorial powers would be invoked by the government had no foundation. The Worker, alarmed at irresponsible stories emanating from the Crows' Nest Pass, threw denunciatory vituperation at Messrs. Brownlee and associates, but, when the smoke cleared away, it was learnt that action by the Provincial government was directed against the secretary-treasurer of the town—an appointee of an earlier council—instead of against Mayor Bill Knight and his working-class councillors.

Apparently the attitude of the provincial government on such matters is to allow each municipal body complete control until such time as discrepancies occur. The election of Mayor Knight and his slate apparently was coincidental with an investigation into the book-keeping of Blairmore's secretary-treasurer. There are times when the Communist rushes to erroneous conclusions because of his ever-present obsession against capitalist government. No doubt, if Mayor Knight attempts to conduct municipal matters without regard to special privilege, he will receive strong support from Edmonton's capitalistic administrators. — Drumheller Mail.

WOMAN OF THE WORLD

Lois Moran, formerly one of the sweet, demure young leading ladies of the screen, has a radically different role in "Men in Her Life," Columbia drama opening Monday at the Orpheum. Lois plays an experienced woman of the world in the picture, an adaptation of the Warner Fabian novel.

The Mayor of Blairmore, in a proclamation calling upon every wage earner to volunteer 5 per cent. of his pay for the relief of his unemployed brother citizens, says: "We have come to the conclusion, after a great deal of deliberation that 'redness is the state of the stomach.' No one is in a position to deny this, unless he has had the personal experience, but it sounds likely.—Vulcan Advocate.

VERIGIN STILL SUBJECT TO DEPORTATION

Ottawa, March 25.—"A convict other than a Canadian, liable by his offence to be deported, continues to be subject to deportation even if released prior to the expiration of his sentence under a valid exercise of the royal prerogative."

This is the interpretation given to a judgment rendered in the supreme court of Canada today.

An act of clemency in releasing a convict from prison prior to the completion of the term of his sentence may be valid and effective in law without the consent of the convict.

The unanimous opinion of the supreme court of Canada was handed down early in the afternoon by Chief Justice Lyman P. Duff on the reference as to the effect of the exercise by the governor-general of the royal prerogative of mercy in deportation cases.

ASININE LAW MAKING

This from the Lethbridge Herald: "Last year a lady member of the Herald staff figured up her Alberta income tax—taxes by the way, or money she earned when there was no such law in force—and found it to be some 37 cents.

"Willingly she paid the tax. But imagine her chagrin when she found that, for the privilege of paying a 37-cent tax she had to cough up a $3.00 fine fee.

"Mr. Brownlee has refused to alter this absurd regulation of the income tax act.

"Why not be honest about it and say that all electors should pay $3 as a sort of poll tax? It would bring in some revenue and would sound like sense."

AGREE TO POOLING

Montreal, Que., March 27.—The Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways have agreed, in principle, to pooling of competitive passenger services wherever practicable. Detailed arrangements for making the pool effective, east and west, will take some time to complete, but in order to effect immediate economies the two companies have arranged for a partial pooling of passenger service between Montreal-Toronto and the pooling of all passenger service Ottawa-Toronto, these consolidations to be effective on Sunday, April 2nd. An economy of well over half a million dollars per year will result from these initial developments in the pooling arrangements. The pooling arrangement is an extension of the continued reduction in passenger service to meet the decline in passenger traffic. It is felt that the pooled services will provide ample facilities for all present requirements.

SAVED IMPORTED DRESS

"After a little wearing, a lovely green voile—an imported dress—lost color so completely that it was not wearable. A friend who had admired it asked me why I wasn't wearing it any more. On hearing the reason, she advised dyeing it and recommended Diamond Dyes. To make a long story short, I turned out beautifully. I have a lovely new dress that really cost just 15¢—the price of one package of Diamond Dyes."

"I have since used Diamond Dyes for both tinting and dyeing. They do either equally well. I am not an expert dyer but I never have a failure with Diamond Dyes. They seem to be made so they always go on smoothly and evenly. They never spot, streak or run; and friends never know the things I dye with Diamond Dyes are really at all!"

Gardens At Fort Resolution

Many Crops Successfully Cultivated Far North Of Edmonton

Good gardens were again grown in 1932 at Resolution, on Great Slave Lake, 324 miles north of Edmonton, according to Dr. C. A. Bourget, M.D., the Indian agent at that point. In most of his own garden he could water with the help of an engine, and consequently had 135 bags of potatoes, against 150 the year previous. Unwatered gardens seem to have suffered, as they did at Hay River and Providence, farther west. Simpson, still farther west, had a bumper crop. Good onions and celery were among the doctor's 1932 achievements. He planted no tomatoes, but the corporals of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and another gardener had satisfactory results with them, and the Oblate mission had green ones by the tubful, ripening some indoors. At various points Dr. Bourget finds a few of his Indians planting potatoes and vegetables, and surprising results are obtained.

Making Name As Architect

Work Of British Premier's Son Shows Great Originality

Allister MacDonald, son of the Prime Minister, is rapidly making a name for himself as an architect, and at least one distinctive picture house in the North bears witness to his originality. His latest work is a small London theatre which he has designed, a novel idea being that each row contains only six seats, which obviates that annoying crushing to allow late arrivals to reach their seats.

The main trans-Canada highway passes through the ruins of the slide of 1903, when upwards of 90 persons were buried alive. Millions of tons of rock and earth swept in an avalanche over the valley. To safeguard travellers it is being urgently asked that the road be changed to a route beyond the danger line. Appeals are going forward to the government along these lines.

Old timers are now recalling the Frank slide horror of April 29, 1903. Early in the morning and without the slightest warning, Turtle Mountain, rising 3,000 feet above the mining village, was torn asunder and a hundred millions of tons of debris fell with a thundering roar over the settlement and across the valley. A thousand acres were covered with limestone rock to a varying depth of a foot to a 150 feet. Many miners' cottages were buried, others were destroyed. Much of the colliery works was swept away and a river was dammed while a mile and a quarter strip of the C.P.R. railway tracks was buried.

The tragedy would have been intensified had the slide occurred a few minutes earlier for the C.P.R. passenger train had just passed through the village when the slide occurred. Whole families were wiped out, others lost some of their members. For years this enormous tomb remained little disturbed. Rocks have been moved and in these excavations the remains of some of the victims have been discovered.

Alberta Government Warns Frank Residents

Recurrence Of 1903 Rock Slide May Occur Any Time

Although they have been warned that Turtle Mountain is again in an ugly mood, villagers of Frank, Alberta, west of Lethbridge in the Crow's Nest Pass, are not moving. They are clinging to their cottages and belongings as they cannot believe the mountain that slid in 1903 will repeat the tragedy. Yet slowly the crevices grow wider and the danger to life and property increases.

Rock slides may occur at any time. Specially are they likely in the spring and the Alberta government has sounded a warning.

The main trans-Canada highway passes through the ruins of the slide of 1903, when upwards of 90 persons were buried alive. Millions of tons of rock and earth swept in an avalanche over the valley. Explained Treasures In Windsor Castle To Argentine Official

The Prince of Wales and Prince George acted as guides to members of the Argentine official mission during their visit to Windsor Castle. The party first inspected Eton College and then moved to the castle, where two hours were spent seeing St. George's Chapel, the State and private apartments, and the royal library. The Prince of Wales, who spoke in Spanish, explained in detail the treasures which he showed the visitors.

JESUS MINISTERING TO JEWS AND GENTILES

Golden Text: "Other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and they shall become one flock, one shepherd."—John 10:16.

Lesson: Mark 7:1-37.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 11:1-10.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Ministering To His "Other Sheep." verses 34-50.—From Capernaum Jesus went northward beyond the confines of Galilee into a region round about the Phoenician cities of Tyre and Sidon. He entered a house and wished no one to know of His presence, but He could not be hid. In these words we get a glimpse of what Jesus' ministry cost Him, of the drain it was upon his resources of body and spirit. In silence and solitude He would repair His forces.

"The verdict of all the centuries is that Jesus was the greatest of all men. He was the greatest of all men because He could not be hid. That is the meaning of the Reformation, when He came, the world was darkened. That is the meaning of every revival, when Christ is up and every eye beholds Him. That is the meaning of all social effort which is so earnest in our land today; for it is Christ who is moving in it all, and He cannot be hid."—C. H. Mortimer.

A Cure In The Decapolis, verses 31-37.—When Jesus left the neighborhood of Tyre He went northward to Sidon and returned home by a circuitous route which brought Him to the town of the Decapolis. There a man who was deaf and could not speak plainly was brought to Him for cure. "The Greek word translated 'had an impediment in his speech' is sometimes considered as meaning 'dumb,' but in the context of his cure in verse 35, that he 'spoke plain,' it does not seem to mean that here. Jesus took the man aside, possibly out of thoughtful kindness because the man's affliction had made him nervous and self-conscious, or perhaps because Jesus wished to lead the crowds of the afflicted that were at once through Him for cures, for He was to do here as He did in Mark 8:23, John 9:6. He used visible signs, put His fingers into the man's ears, spat, and touched his tongue, then looking up to heaven in prayer. He said to the man 'Ephphatha.' He opened His mouth and said new avenues of approach to that handicapped life that through the uplifted gaze of a fuller meaning of this world of interest might enter into his personal consciousness. The Master is saying to every life that hears not the still small voice of the Spirit of the Living God, 'Be opened.' He would have it react under every sort of stimulus, visible and invisible, tangible or spiritual. He would have the entire world of reality perpetually finding its way into the deeper consciousness of every man."—Charles R. Brown.

Planting Trees

Early Spring Is The Best Time For This Work

Deciduous, that is broad-leaved trees should not be planted when in leaf. The planting should be done either in the spring before the leaf buds begin to open or in the autumn after the leaves begin to fall or have been completely shed, says the tree planting division, Dominion Department of Agriculture. The best time is early in the spring as soon as the ground has thawed out. Trees are then quick with new life and if moved can readily provide new feeding roots and adapt themselves to changed conditions. The actual planting will vary with the locality and season, but in general it should be done in April or early May.

Report Says Britain May Return To Gold Standard

The financial editor of the Sunday Express states that the Bank of England is planning to amass 250,000,000 pounds sterling in gold, and then return to the gold standard.

He said the gold-stock now on hand totalled 108,000,000 pounds sterling as compared with 120,000,000 pounds in January 1.

DEFICIT IN POSTAL RECEIPTS

Two Cent Rate Brings In More Revenue Than Three

Both in principle and from the teachings of past experience, public men know well that after a certain point has been reached, the revenue derived from any given tax tends to fall off as the rate is pushed upward. Yet strangely enough, when revenues become inadequate to meet the needs of the time, they are apt to forget this fact in the temptation of squeezing a greater return out of a particular assessment.

One of the first Departments of Government to find out that, conversely, to reduce the rate might be to increase revenue, was the Post Office. In the days of the stage-coach postal charges were so high that letter-carriers were paid relatively the well-to-do. A single sheet of paper would be crossed with writing in order to keep down the weight upon which postage must be paid.

But because postage was expensive, the revenue to the Government was small. Then Roland Hill, in England, conceived the daring idea of penny postage, put it into practice, made letter-writing popular, and the revenue went up by leaps and bounds.

For many years, a penny or two cent rate was paid relatively in most countries but of late years the need for revenue has led a number of Governments to raise it to three cents: the Canadian Government among the number.

In the United States a year's trial has proved conclusively that the three-cent stamp is a dismal failure as a revenue raiser; in fact, it is figured that continuance of this rate during 1933 will cost the American Post Office Department $100,000,000. So first class mail in the United States will be going under a two-cent stamp by July 1, and it is also planned to return to the old one-cent rate for local or drop letters, within a year or two.

Our Canadian experience has been much the same. In 1928-29, expenditures on ordinary postage cost the Post Office amounted to $43,483,000 and revenue to $40,611,964, yielding a surplus of $7,128,964. Since then the Department has been losing money steadily and the last completed figures show a deficit of over $6,000,000, with receipts still dropping.

It will pay Ottawa to revert to the penny post!—Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

Hope For The Future

New Little Operates Without Noise, Fumes, Or Ammunition

A useful exhibit to be seen at the British Industries Fair suggests a hope for the future. According to the description, it "enables the owner to have rifle practice without noise, fumes or ammunition. By a system of lenses and mechanism within a gun a luminous target is first projected on a blank wall or a specially prepared target board. When aim is taken and the trigger pressed a black spot appears upon the target at the point at which the gun was fired." Is there no means of reducing warfare to a similar set of hypotheses and conditions?—London Observer.

Guatemalans are now fashioning useful domestic articles from old auto tires. Tin cans, metal drums and containers of all kinds, according to a report to the commerce department.

An enterprising Guatemalan has established a sizeable business fabricating "cattle" native sandals, from used automobile tires. Old inner tubes are made to serve as waterproof covers for horses and mules and for collars and ox yokes.

CHAPTER VIII.

A Deadly Trap

"Slob-ice!" Jensen was glaring around him at the other five faces in the tent.

"Some of you lubbers," he growled, "ain't got the sense you was borned with. You gimme a pain with your whining and growling and always wanting to argue about what I tell you. Now I'm gonna explain just what's ahead of us and what we gotta do."

"The six men were as motley a crew as ever the whaling fleets of Bering's sea and the Western Arctic could muster up. With one exception the six of them were deck hands—wharf yelves of gutter speech and alley vices; strange men to be camped in the heart of a wilderness that even the Indians seldom penetrated.

There was John Siebelick, a square-faced Alaskan, a descendant of the Comstock Promyshlenniki (fur-hunters) who for generations, when Russia ruled the north-western shores of America, had held brutal sway over the Aleuts and Kachin in their lust for peltry.

There was Pete Gonzales, a Sandwich Islander, a brown-skinned, white teeth flashing, his dress gaudy and picturesque.

There was "Lunnon Dick," a wiry stunted timey, with Battersea accent and quick jerky ways.

There was "Chink" Woolley, a quarter-Chinese, an olive-faced, silent nondescript, with his right arm in sling from Bill Hardcock's bullet.

The fifth was a Dogrib met named Andre, a thin small weasel-like man of fifty. He had just returned from a scouting trip down the Big Alouka. The six of them were talking, or listening rather to Jensen talk, of final plans to escape. Echoing the identical line of reasoning which Alan Baker had sketched in Haskell's cabin. Jensen went on: "Some of you wants go back to the River and get outside thataway. It's fire—yep! nobbs git ten miles afore the Yeller-stripes 'ud grab you off. Some of you wants go north to the Arctic coast. Whaffer? No ships to git away on, and the Yeller-stripes've got patrols there to boot. You say, 'Heard south.' Yeah—and run into the best of police posts there around Athabasca. We can't go south nor west nor north, but we kin go east—"

Lunnon Dick spoke up: "Clear hover 't' Udon Bay er Manioba? Two thousand miles heavy? That's a bloody 'long' 'ard trip. Slob-Hice."

Jensen turned on him with a fierce anger and whining sarcasm that silenced Lunnon for an hour.

"Sure it's a h—l—h long hard trot, you runty big rat! Don't I know it? But I'd rather tramp ten thousand miles than do them twenty slow short steps from a hogswog to a scaffold!"

The others all nodded emphatically, fearful of Jensen's scorching anger. They were sitting there on a hundred and fifty thousand dollars which he had got for them. They owed their very lives to his quick thinking aboard the steamer, when he had pulled their trick out of the fire. And they were leaning on him now to save them out to the oblivion of a big city.

He went on explaining the escape. "Now, here, all of you—look't here!" He smoothed a place on the mud floor; and as the others leaned forward to watch, he drew a rude map with his long thumb nail. "We'll follow the Inconnu east a ways and then head south for Manitoba. We'll spend the rest of this summer and fall working down into timber country. Then we'll find some good hiding place and build a couple of shacks and lay in meat, and we'll wait there till the break-up. Next spring we'll cast on down and out to Winnipeg, and there we'll be with better'n a hundred and fifty thousand in hides and dust!"

His own personal and private plans after they did get out to Winnipeg, Jensen did not see fit to disclose. He knew a party there in the Queen City of the Wheat Plains who would buy the furs at two-thirds of their auction value and say "nudding." The dust, being unstamped, could be sold anywhere. He himself, both business manager and leader of this cruise, would naturally attend to these business matters. Once with the parties in his pocket, would be split six ways with these lubbers? Or would he take a train and fade out of their lives and have that hundred and fifty thousand for his own sweet own? You bet your life he would!

The Others All Nodded Emphatically

With his plans clear and the men completely under his sway, Jensen leaned back against a pajeon of furs, and sat, smoking, thinking.

He guessed that for once the police were altogether baffled. They must be pounding their heads to explain how he and his men were, where they had come from, how they had got into this country, unknown, unseen; and how they, complete strangers, knew the ins and outs of this northern wilderness as well as the police themselves. He thought of them as a pack of hounds circling frantically to pick up a scent. It was pleasing to know he had out-manoeuvred them from start to finish. A man who could beat the Yeller-stripes would have no trouble at all dodging the provincial police and town cops.

But this reflection was only on the surface of his thoughts. He was thinking of the MacMillan trading post. "Breed Andre had said that Dave MacMillan was not there. Jensen shrewdly guessed where the trader was. From the MacMillan girl being alone at the post, except for that white-whiskered old coot, Jensen guessed Dave MacMillan had just got into trouble over that pack of otter furs in the storage shed.

Through the tobacco haze Jensen looked back across six years and saw again all the details of that certain incident between himself and Joyce MacMillan. He had relived that incident a thousand times since it happened. The memory of it, the memory of that laughing-eyed girl, had come down across the years like the scent of fresh violets. Two weeks ago when his party passed the MacMillan trading post, the place had seemed deserted; and drawn by some overpowering impulse to see her, to be near her again, he had dug caution and hot haste to the winds, and stopped, and gazed ashore. The sure of that MacMillan girl asleep, an arm under her head, a great-spurred violet in her hair—that flesh-and-blood reincarnation of her former memory had been a madness in his blood ever since, it had overshadowed his waking thoughts, had filled across his dreams, had been present with him even during the hot battle with the three Mounties at the edge of Many Waters.

The news which "Breed Andre had brought back—that Joyce was practically alone at the trading post, scarcely two days travel away, that the trading divided and few Indians or metis came now, that the officer commanding at Fort Endurance was giving her no protection whatsoever—this news to Jensen was like a match to a heap of powder.

His deliberate brain saw danger in his scheme; but he had risked death for the furs and gold, and that hundred and fifty thousand was far less vivid, less tangible, less impassioned to him than the memory of that moment when he stood looking through Joyce's window. He had spent a year on a whaler without getting back to port; a year of exile in Alaskan mountains, among prospectors. . . . There are hungers more powerful than the hunger of food or gold. . . .

It would be ridiculously easy, he imagined to knock the old coot on the head and take the defenseless girl. They would land above the station and creep upon it through the bush. Two of his men would go in peacefully, as though to trade, and watch their chance to seize her. His party could swoop, strike, and have the whole thing over in ten minutes.

Knocking the ashes from his pipe, he leaned forward: "Men, I got an idea. I just showed you lubbers our one chance to escape. Now I'm gonna show you how we can make our getaway dead sure and certain. How we can't them Yeller-stripes up in a sack and throw away the key. Anybody objecting? . . . Anybody wanting to kick over the traces.

Clapping around him, he saw emphatic denials. The men were hanging upon his words; he knew they would obey him without a whimper of protest.

He went on, "We're going to make a little sackday down the Alouka to MacMillan's trading post. We're going to it tomorrow. We'll rap that old duffer on the head and take the girl. We'll throw them Yeller-stripes clear off the scent. While they're hunting for her, we'll be making tracks southeast to Manitoba. Y'aind how we saved our skins on the steamship by taking that other skid? We'll do it again; but we'll carry this'n on along with us. No one'll ever know what happened to her. . . ."

For a few days after Alan Baker bought out of the service and left Fort Endurance, Inspector Haskell enjoyed more peace and security than he had felt in many months. But after the first satisfaction wore away, it gradually occurred to Haskell that maybe he ought to make some move to capture those six bandits. To let them escape without raising a hand against them would look bad, very bad, to Superintendent Williamson on his coming visit to the post.

Thinking over his situation, he remembered how Baker had demanded to lead a patrol to the Inconnu River and lie in wait there. Baker had said they would try to escape by that route. He knew what he was talking about. Haskell realized he knew. Should he send a detail to the Inconnu?

The more Haskell pondered the idea, the more it appealed to him. It was reasonably sure to succeed. It would be the positive action he needed. On his wall map he hunted for the Inconnu. He found a small channel at the Mackenzie by that name, but Baker's Inconnu was some large river. Perhaps the chart listed it as "The Unknown," the English translation of the name. He searched for an Inconnu and an Unknown, but found neither. Such a stream simply was not shown on his map.

When Little Otter came in to the post for a supply of chewing tobacco, Haskell pumped him. The sub-chief had only the haziest idea where the Inconnu was, but Indian-like he would not admit his ignorance. He started talking, gesticulating—till Haskell caught him in a first self-straddled and kicked him out of the cabin in angry disgust.

Prince Has Useful Hobby

Taught By Queen Mary He Knits

Unusually Well

Before long somebody may be going about wearing proudly a woollen scarf that was knitted by the Prince of Wales. For the heir to the British throne knits and crochets, too, enjoying both and does both unusually well.

Attention was drawn to these little-known diversions by a recent episode. In a box of clothing sent from St. James's Palace to the Lambeth depot of the Personal Service League was a hand-knitted scarf. But for a moment the scarf was the Prince to his depot, which is on his estate, the scarf in question probably would have remained undistinguished from the rest of the garments.

Seeing the scarf on the pile, however, the Prince startled his companions by casually remarking: "That is one I knitted." At once the scarf was separated from the pile. The news spread quickly and high offers were made for it.

This is not the first knitted by the Prince. When a needlework guild in which Queen Mary takes a personal interest in its annual exhibition some time ago, three scarves made by the Prince and three made by his younger brother, Prince George, two of each knitted and the other one crocheted were among the articles displayed.

The Prince of Wales, having some red wool left over scored over his brother by adding a pair of mittens to the exhibition.

The Prince, one hears at York House, finds that an occasional half-hour devoted to knitting or crocheting supplies much-needed mental relaxation. At once the scarf was separated from the pile. The news spread quickly and high offers were made for it.

RESOLUTIONS

In spite of all the hosts of wrong that I am causing, pursuing, and doing, I will be brave, I will be strong, I will be firm and true!

Unsheathing stanch swords red with rust That others have left fall, I will be faithful to my trust, Nor any vow recall. I will be wise; I will not grope Down dark and devious ways, I will cling close to one bright hope Through ever-changing days.

Ah, who am I to launch these boasts Like ships foredoomed to break Upon the far years' unknown coasts? What pledges dare I make? Not of myself can I resolve What I will do or be; But only as God helps me solve Each moment's mystery.

A Vanished Race

No Living Eskimos In Northeast Greenland Since 1823

A vanished race has left traces of an active life on the shores of Northeast Greenland. No trace of living Eskimos in that district has been known since 1823. It is thought that some sudden tragedy must have overcome the Eskimos, because in several bays were found a number of skeletons. In 1913 the explorer of the Royal Geographical Society found a number of implements among the ruins, many of which were well preserved and of archaeological value. To judge from the implements, the coast seems to have been inhabited about 1400-1500.

One machine has been invented that can turn out 34 miles of wall-paper daily. Sheets of plain paper fed into the machine, often are four miles in length.

Produced Queer Fruit

Half Lemon, Half Orange Evidently Evolved From Grafting

A very unusual fresh half lemon and half orange, was received in a shipment of California fruit opened at the Gorton Holmes store, in Simcoe, Ontario. The "lemon-orange" has the appearance of having been grafted by some experimenting joker after the fruit had commenced to form. Divided longitudinally into two hemispheres, the orange half is 100 per cent. orange with a bright orange-colored skin, while the lemon half is just as much of a lemon with typical light yellow skin. There are the usual differences in the textures of the two, but the two halves are solidly grown together, a narrow ridge running around the fruit where the two halves are joined. The fruit grew on one stem.

It is not by regretting what is irreparable that true work is to be done, but by making the best of what we have. It is not by complaining that we have not the right tools, but by using well the tools we have. What we are and where we are—God's providential arrangement—God's doing though it may be man's misdoing; and the manly and wise way is to look your disadvantages in the face and see what can be made out of them. FOR ANY PAIN

Have you ever found any quicker relief than this?

Anyone can take Aspirin, for doctors have declared these tablets perfectly safe.

And there is no quicker form of relief for any pain.

It is well to remember these things when anyone tries to persuade you to try anything in place of these tablets.

Aspirin may be taken as often as there is any need of its comfort: to stop a headache, throw off a cold, drive away the pains from neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago, etc.

Whenever you take Aspirin you know you are going to get immediate results—and you know there will be no ill effects. You know what you are taking.

Why take chances on some form of relief which may not be as swift—may not be as safe? The new reduced price on bottles of 100 tablets has removed the last reason for ever experimenting with any substitute for Aspirin!

Aspirin is a trade-mark registered in Canada

WHAT ABOUT BEING "RED"?

A letter was received by this column some days ago containing the query: "Is it all right for a Catholic to be a Red?" We are not sure whether the author of the query is a Catholic or not, but if Catholic he/she be, we cannot withhold expressing strong surprise that such a query could come from such a source.

"Is it all right?" No, it is all wrong. The Reds are the apostles of Russia in this country. They are the apostles of destruction. They would destroy order and peace amongst us; they would set up here Russia's form of government, the cruellest and most enslaving government yet devised by man. The Reds would destroy every last vestige of religion, would destroy our churches and banish God from the heart and mind of man.

A Catholic always and ever stands for human rights. The right to the possession of land, to his home, to the education of his children, a Catholic holds as fundamental. The Red would take away all such rights.

No, it is not all right. A Catholic must not ally himself with the Red elements, but he must do all in his power to bring to naught the efforts of Red propagandists. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" to day as of old, and State and church in this country would do well to counteract in every possible way the growth of Red notions amongst our people. I AM THE PRINTING PRESS

(By Robert H. Davis)

I am the printing-press, born of the mother earth. My heart is of steel, my limbs are of iron, and my fingers are of brass.

I sing the songs of the world, the oratorios of history, the symphonies of all time.

I am the voice of today, the herald of tomorrow. I weave into the warp of the past the woof of the future. I tell the stories of peace and war alike.

I make the human heart beat with passion or tenderness. I stir the pulse of nations, and make brave men do braver deeds, and soldiers die.

I inspire the midnight toiler, weary at his loom, to lift his head again and gaze with fearlessness into the vast beyond, seeking the consolation of a hope eternal.

When I speak, a myriad people listen to my voice. The Saxon, the Latin, the Celt, the Hun, the Slav, the Hindu, all comprehend me.

I am the tireless clarion of the news. I cry your joys and sorrows every hour. I fill the dullard's mind with thoughts uplifting. I am light, knowledge, power. I epitomize the conquests of mind over matter.

I am the record of all things man-kind has achieved. My offspring comes to you in the candle's glow, amid the dim lamps of poverty, the splendor of riches; at sunrise, at high noon, and in the waning evening.

I am the laughter and tears of the world, and I shall never die until all things return to the immutable dust. I am the printing-press.

A couple of weeks ago, the High River Times commented on the great crowd of residents of that district rushing to secure their auto licenses for 1933 at an average rate of $20.00 each. A week or so afterwards the rate was lowered by five dollars, and the Times suggests that if citizens of that district had been willing to walk for a month they could have saved three thousand dollars. But, is any sympathy coming to them?

William McGuire and William Cameron, who escaped from the Cranbrook jail on the night of March 10th, were recaptured between Creston and Nelson.

The cut through the rock and ice slide near Morrissey was completed the early part of last week, and through auto traffic was directed that way Wednesday. Since then, however, word has been received that the highway through that district has been closed to heavy traffic indefinitely.

Heard a story the other day of a man from Glasgow who was noticed lately doing quite a bit of walking, as his automobile was temporarily laid up. It seems that he put a lightning rod on his storage battery and has it sitting out in the yard waiting for a lightning storm to come along and recharge it.

H. J. Witchell, who has represented Guinera Limited, of Edmonton, in East Kootenay and The Pass, will be leaving Cranbrook in a few days for Nelson, where he will make his headquarters as representative of that company. Mr. Witchell occupies the position of district deputy for East Kootenay for the Knights of Columbus.

Col. Hugh Clark, who writes "Looking at the News," is keeping closely in touch with the doings of Peter Vergin and the B.C. Doukhobors, who have threatened a nude parade to Winnipeg. This item caught the fancy of Geph Johnson, who has written to Vergin, requesting him to try and route them by way of Medicine Hat and the Crows' Nest Pass.

Years of experience on trains, steamers and in hotels have taught Canadian National chefs that the following is an excellent recipe for stuffed plank steak: Pound a rare flank steak, make a stuffing of equal parts of a half pound of sausage meat and a half cup of breadcrumbs, seasoning with one minced onion and thyme, roll up, tie into shape, brown in hot fat, cover half with stock and let simmer for one hour. Skim and strain the gravy, thicken with flour browned in butter, or in a little of the fat, season with mushroom catsup, and pour over the meat, or serve separately.

Pete Lemski, centre ice man for the Miners, has just got out of the hospital, where he has spent the past two weeks. Immediately the league season was over, Pete was sent to the hospital, where Dr. T. R. Ross operated on his right leg, which was injured during the playing season. Lemski played the last two weeks under extreme difficulties, complications setting in after his leg was bruised by a flying puck, and aggravated by further cracks in each game he played. Just as soon as he can travel, he will leave on a visit home, his mother being quite ill at the present time.—Drumheller Review.

That adequate medical services for all the people of Alberta can be secured only through the operation of a contributory health insurance scheme is stated in the progress report of the legislative committee on health services tabled in the legislature by Hon. George Hoadley, minister of health. The committee's report, dealing with the ultimate provision of an ideal scheme for medical services, says any plan of a more "local" nature should be readily adaptable to a more general system if such should become dominant or provincial-wide in its application. Enabling legislation, by which municipal districts or parts thereof may organize for provision of medical and allied services also, should be utilized, says the report. Information at hand as yet does not enable it to make a final report, which is regretted by the commission. The committee was made up of Hon. George Hoadley, chairman; G. E. Cruickshank, Hillcrest; R. Henning, Fort Saskatchewan; W. G. Farquharson, Provost; Dr. Atkinson, Edmonton; Hon. Mrs. Parly, Alix; and C. Patterson, Edson.—Eg.

THINGS WORK OUT

Because it rains when we wish it wouldn't,
Because men do what they often shouldn't,
Because crops fail and plans go wrong
Some of us grumble all day long,
But somehow in spite of care and doubt,
It seems at last that things work out.

Because we lose where we hoped to gain,
Because we suffer a little pain,
Because we must work when we'd like to play,
Some of us whimper along life's way,
But somehow as day follows night,
Most of our troubles work out alright.

Because we cannot forever smile;
Because we must struggle in the dust awhile;
Because we think that the way is long;
Some of us growl that life's all wrong,
But somehow we live and our sky grows bright,
And everything seems to work out right.

So tend to your troubles and meet your care,
For the clouds must break and the sky grow fair.
Let the rain come down as it must and will,
But keep on working and hoping still;
For in spite of the grumblers that stand about,
Somehow, it seems, all things work out.

—E. A. Guerin.

The town of Blairmore has just published their financial statement and show cash in the bank over $16,600, and a balance of assets over liabilities of over $49,000; and all outstanding debentures of school and town will be paid fully by 1935. Yet, the daily press has reported government officers as stating the town to be on the verge of bankruptcy. Such statements should draw a severe reprimand at the least.—Brooks Bulletin.

Glowing reports are received from government relief camps, where a large number of young men have been employed during the fall and winter months. Though being unable to work steadily, on account of weather, the boys are feeling the benefit of regular and good meals and the absence of opportunity to throw away their earnings. There are quite a number of young men in this district who refused to work in these relief camps at the "deemand" of Harvey Murphy and others. One reason given for not wanting the boys to go there was "the bad company they would get into." Well, whatever the company there, it would have been better for the boys than loafing around town and being victims of raf influence, which NEVER WILL BE of benefit to them.

Beatty of the C.P.R.

As Montrealeers Know Him
Excerpted from Montreal Daily Herald

Ed. Beatty is a quarterback who studied law, but by a twist of fate, became a railway president.

Though he could not make the first string on the Variety gridiron squad, he had no difficulty with the C.P.R. and has played regularly ever since. They say it was Shaughnessy coaching that turned the trick (Lord S. not Sir).

He is probably the shiest man in Canada. The ladies admire him because he wears his hat over one eye and walks with a quarterback swagger. The fact that he is a bachelor and apparently intends to remain one provides a second element of his sales quota to keep feminine hearts in a state of flutter.

He talks straight from the shoulder and has an uncanny talent for getting at the core of the most intricate problem.

The man in the street respects him because he breaches The Gospel Of True Canadianism. Politicians fawn on him because he is the boss of the C.P.R.

The Prince of Wales is another citizen who thinks Beatty is "all right," and His Royal Highness is always ready to prove it by officiating at the launching of a new C.P.R. ship.

Ordinary people respect him highly, and are sorry his railway is having a hard time.

As a youth he wanted to be a judge, but fate intervened and sent him a job in the C.P.R.'s legal department. Young Beatty refused to regard this as his life-work, but ultimately had to decide in a hurry when the late Lord Shaughnessy sent for him and asked him to be a Vice-President.

Here is one version of what took place:

Beatty said "No!"
"Tom" Shaughnessy fixed the young attorney with a stern eye and exclaimed, "My God, Beatty! Do you want to be a mere lawyer all your life?" Young Beatty smiled and took the job.

Some people think Mr. Beatty is hard to reach and takes a lot of citizens who wait for weeks for the call to conference. Nevertheless he is the easiest man in the country to talk to, provided you can crash the outer office.

He is one of the few leading citizens who go in for Good Works in a big way without thought of publicity or praise. Not long ago the mother of an ex-Boys' Home youth who had lost his job in the States, was destitute and needed trainfare home in despair. He telephoned to E. W. The Chairman and President of the C.P.R. came to the phone in person, discussed the case with the harassed mother, told her not to worry and instructed the C.P.R. official nearest to the boy to ship him back to his home, paying the fare out of his own pocket. These are the things which have won him a reputation for kindness and humanity.

He was born at Thorold, which Ontario people will tell you is situated in the Garden of Canada. He attended several schools in Toronto, and ultimately scratched his way into, through and out of, Toronto University and was called to the Ontario Bar. That was in 1901 and almost at once he went into the C.P.R.'s law department. He stayed there for thirteen years before becoming the company's General Counsel. In 1916 he was elected to the Board. In 1918 they made him President, when the Lord Shaughnessy dropped one of his two portfolios. Six years later he edited the title Chairman to his letterhead. Since then he has held both jobs and has had plenty of worries on his hands.

He thinks co-operative management will solve the railway problem. He does more travelling than many salesmen.

To-day you will see him in Calgary. Next Tuesday he will be in Montreal. On Wednesday he will appear before the Railway Commission in the Capital. On Thursday you can talk with him by long distance to the Empress of Britain, onward bound. Wherever he goes he carries his work under his hat. When times were good he used to be written that he had the Biggest Industrial Job In The World. The job to-day is probably just as big but infinitely more arduous.

His continued good repute is largely due to the fact that he is about as good as he is honest, and taking him by and large, he represents a citizen of Canada as can be found between the two oceans.

He does more travelling than many salesmen.

Taxation in Canada

Combined taxes levied by Dominion, Provincial and Municipal Governments in Canada were $55,000,000 in 1904-5, $93,091,361 in 1904-5, $238,036,485 in 1913-14, $380,951,718 in 1921-22, and $772,969,446 in 1929-30, according to a study prepared by W. Sanford Evans, and released for the National Committee on Economy in Public Finance, by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Per capita, the levies are as shown in the diagram; $10.94 in 1895-6, $15.98 in 1904-5, $31.20 in 1913-14, $66.10 in 1921-22 and $77.08 in 1929-30.

Most tax bills are paid by heads of families. Adopting the census returns of 1921 of 4.52 persons as the average per family then taxes per family of $14.14 in 1913-14 and grown almost 3½ times to $35.61 per family in 1929-30, or almost $50 per month.

As with government expenditures and debts, these increases have far outrun the basic industrial and financial development.

The boy took the matches away, but presently returned with them once more.

"Please, sir, mother says she hasn't time to come and scratch all her matches on you, behind."

Two rival commercial travellers were journeying to the same village to solicit trade from its only merchant. The village was off the main line, being reached from a junction about half-mile distant. The only conveyance to the village for travellers' sample trunks was a hand-propelled cart. On arrival at the junction one of the travellers hustled out and hired the cart ahead of his rival. Unable to obtain any other means of conveying his samples, the other traveller in desperation prevailed upon the local undertaker, who lived nearby, to convey his trunks to the village in a hearse. On the way they passed the push cart and its attendant. On arrival at the merchant's store the first traveller was surprised to meet his friend leaving the store with the information that the order had been secured.

"How did you get here ahead of me?" asked the disgruntled salesman. "Oh!" said the other, "I passed you in a hearse on the road in. I was inside with my samples."

"You were, eh?" was the reply in a disgusted tone. "Well I'll be d—d, and I lifted my hat, too!"

Peter Verigin visited the Cowley Doukhobors during the week.

A Great Opportunity.

In articles written for this column a studious effort is made to avoid subjects of a partisan political character, because we are not concerned with the fate of political parties, as such, but only with the effect which the adoption or rejection of any given policy may have upon the welfare of the country and people as a whole. For this reason, and in order to avoid even an appearance of partisanship, discussion of certain subjects which undoubtedly are in the public interest, but which, unfortunately, have become involved in party controversy, has not been undertaken. The aim of this column has been, and will continue to be, to present information, logically and fairly interpreted, and leave it to the reader to reach his or her own conclusions.

One subject which has, therefore, been more or less taboo in this column is Customs Tariffs, their effect on prices, on the trade and commerce of the country, on both internal and external development, and international relationships in general. That taboo on the wide subject of Tariffs still remains because political parties remain sharply divided on the question, but there is one particular aspect of the Tariff and Trade question which, within recent weeks, has been lifted out of the realm of partisan controversy so far as Canada is concerned. Reference is to the subject of reciprocity with the United States.

All political parties in Canada are now definitely committed to the policy of entering into favorable trade relations with our great neighbor to the south, and, most happily, the present Administration in the United States is also favorable. It would appear, therefore, unless purely selfish interests in both countries are allowed to unduly influence the probable course of events, a new chapter in the trade relations of these two good neighbors will shortly be written.

After all, it will not in reality be the writing of a new chapter, but the re-opening after a long interval of the book of an old chapter, and a revision of that chapter in the light of present day developments and needs. Reciprocity did prevail many years ago between Canada and the United States, and it was admittedly advantageous to both countries. Why, then, was it abrogated? The Encyclopaedia Britannica gives the reason in these words:

"A heritage of differences and difficulties had been left to be settled between England, Canada and the American Union as the result of the Civil War. In retaliation for the supposed sympathy of Canadians with the South in the struggle, the victorious North took steps to abrogate in 1866 the reciprocity treaty of 1854, which had conferred such great advantages on both countries."

Whatever the differences and difficulties and ill-feelings and suspicions which were engendered by the American Civil War, they have long since passed away. They no longer stand as a stumbling block to the development of the freest and largest possible exchange of trade between these two countries, each of which is the natural market of the other.

Now with the situation in Canada being that our Government in power at Ottawa, whether Conservative, Liberal, C.C.F., or a coalition of any two or all three parties, would be committed by their party declarations to the negotiation of a reciprocal trade agreement, and with the Roosevelt Administration, supported by an overwhelming majority in both Houses of Congress, equally favorable, the time would appear to be most opportune for the cultivation of the strongest possible public sentiment in favor of the early realization of such a policy on a comprehensive scale, and covering the widest possible range of commodities.

According to Henry Chalmers, of Washington, chief of the Foreign Tariff Division of the United States Department of Commerce, "the Government is working full tilt on a reciprocal tariff programme." Even before the Hoover Administration retired from office the Government tariff experts had been put to work on a reciprocal tariff programme, said Mr. Chalmers, in order to help the Roosevelt Administration get a flying start.

Mr. Roosevelt's Secretary of Commerce, Daniel C. Roper, openly advocates a United States tariff policy "of common sense and common decency to other nations." He says: "For too many years we have, as a nation, been fervent in our protestations of a desire to foster our international trade, while at the same time we have actually been doing our best to place in the path almost insurmountable obstacles to the free exchange of goods and services as to tariff policies, but I believe that an overwhelming majority of the American people have unmistakably shown that they are tired of a policy that has antagonized every nation in the world." Buying as well as selling must occur in foreign commerce, he said, adding that no nation could successfully market its own goods if it persisted in refusing to admit a reasonable volume of the products of other countries.

Let it be repeated, therefore, that now, with partisan differences in Canada having been thrown into the discard on this question, is the time for the people of this country to unite in the development of a great sentiment in favor of a far-reaching reciprocal trade agreement with the United States, and the presentation of a united front in order that our great national market to the south may be re-opened in which to sell our primary products, and freedom in buying across the line be accorded to our people in the case of those many things which the United States can supply naturally, quickly from the standpoint of service, and more economically than any other country.

World's Poultry Congress

The first World's Poultry Congress was held in the Netherlands in 1921; the second in Spain in 1924; the third in Canada in 1927, and the fourth in England, 1930. The fifth will be held in Rome, in September, to which Canada will send a fine contingent of Canadian birds through the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Nervous—Could Not Sleep Tired Out All The Time

Mrs. George Sorbier, Naurigewank, N.B., writes: "I was so very nervous I could not sleep at night, and felt tired out all the time. A neighbor told me about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and as she was using them at the time she gave me some to try. I found they were doing me so much good I procured two boxes and they proved of wonderful help to me."

Sweden's "Garden Cities"

Stockholm Is Fringed With Communities Since War

Factory-made cottages that can be put up in a day have become popular in Sweden, and Stockholm is fringed with little "garden cities." The workman who tires of apartment life can order a new home on Monday and help his wife put up the curtains and lay the rugs a few days later.

The "garden cities" are part of a communal building program designed to provide low rents for wage earners, in which the city government has in the last ten years extended indirect financial aid to nearly 100,000 persons, almost one-fifth of the population of the city.

The program was instituted after the World War when there was a shortage of homes as a result of industrial development. The government bought up large country estates, and these are parceled out on long-term leases.

The person who decides to build a cottage can have 90 per cent of the cost financed by the government. The interest charges on this money pay for road development, gas, water and sewer mains. For a modern cottage, with three rooms, kitchen and full basement, the dweller pays about 950 kroner or $260 a year.

Property Of The King

Many Important Thoroughfares In London Belong To Crown

Choice properties of London and splendid agricultural estates are listed among the holdings of the Crown Lands Commission, who administer the estates once owned by the Kings of England personally. In London the crown owns virtually all the modern shopping centre of the West End, Regent Street, and the broad boulevard called the Mall which leads to Buckingham Palace. Much adjacent property, too, belongs to the crown, besides many other important thoroughfares, including the Strand and Oxford Street. The agricultural estates in England amount to more than 100,000 acres. Revenue amounts to nearly $2,000,000 annually, from which the King's Privy Purse, amounting to about $2,350,000 is taken.

"Buy British" Campaign Should Be Modified

Originator Of Movement Thinks It Too Good For Enemy

"Buy British," the campaign that was expected to bring about a revival of British manufacturing by turning purchasers away from foreign goods to home products, is now doubted by one of its most powerful advocates. Sir Edward Crowe, Controller of the Department of Overseas Trade, said in an address: "I think probably the 'Buy British' campaign has gone far enough. We want to buy American goods and we want America to buy British goods." His remarks were made to a gathering of American and British business men.

Sir Edward confessed he had been an originator of the movement he now would modify. It was set on foot by the Empire Marketing Board, of which he is a member.

Like Buckingham Palace

King and Queen Fond Of Quiet Spacious Gardens

While some of the younger members of the royal family dislike Buckingham Palace, the King and Queen are very fond of it. They love the quiet, spacious gardens where they can meander and read and work. Queen Alexandra was most reluctant to leave the Palace and return to Marlborough House after the death of King Edward. Prince George left the house not because he disliked it, but because he wanted to join the Prince of Wales, his favorite brother.

Man Won Competition

The All-England lace knitting competition recently held at Leighton Buzzard, was won by a man. More over, the man is 83. Mr. David Rush, who by trade is a master printer, possesses all the requirements for this delicate craft—keen eyes, steady fingers, and a fine perception of art—and so exults in the lace he submitted that the work of the numerous young lady competitors was put in the shade.

TAKE ENO'S FRUIT SALT

Belief May Be True

People Walking In Sleep Should Not Be Awakened

The danger of awakening a sleep-walker is brought anew into discussion in a story written by Marjorie Ellwood, told to her by a pioneer uncle. It all happened more than 80 years ago, near St. Thomas, Western Ontario. It dotted with old-burying grounds. In some cases the bodies have been removed to public cemeteries, but at nearly every old home-stand a plot of ground covered by bushes or trees is left severely alone. In these plots are the sunken graves of the pioneers, guarded by moldering slabs of marble, neglected, forgotten and sometimes abandoned.

Seven sons and one daughter lived in a certain farmhouse, the daughter idolized her mother and when the latter died, and was buried on the farm, the daughter was heart-broken. Soon it was whispered about that she was sobbing at her mother's grave. The settlement. Different ones who had been out late nights reported they had seen a figure draped in white, gliding along the highway.

Followed one night, a doctor in the country, it was discovered that the grieving daughter was a sleep-walker, sobbing at her mother's grave. The brothers were warned to guard her, but not to awaken her. In the end one brother grew tired of what seemed to him foolishness, on a rainy night. He believed she was not asleep at all, but only acting, so when he followed her in the rain, he called out very croakily to her and woke the poor girl up. She was terrified and fled. Her brother, now frightened, followed her as fast as he could, but lost her in the woods. The settlers organized a posse and searched for her. She was found unconscious later in the day, where she had fallen from exhaustion, miles from home. She was taken home in a raging fever, and died soon after.

Fewer Using Family Crest

Heavy Taxation In England Appears To Be Chief Cause

The family crest, used on carriages, table silver, cigarette cases and rings, is vanishing from London. In 1923 nearly 7,500 licenses were issued for the use of family crests. In 1930, the last year for which figures are available, that total had shrunk by about a third, or some 2,600 and the L.C.C. authorities expect a further decline in the current year. Heavy taxation of the people entitled to armorial bearings appears to be the chief cause. Many of these old families have become extinct, and not a few of the last representatives have emigrated. Perhaps changed habits, and a different attitude towards life, have influenced people who can still afford the guinea license, and a generation hence armorial bearings may be used chiefly by colleges, public schools, and civic and other corporations.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

More Fruits Canned

But Fewer Vegetables Ontario Leads All Other Provinces In Both Lines

The pack of fruits in Canada increased substantially in 1932, but there was a marked decline in the pack of vegetables. Imports of both canned fruits and canned vegetables dropped in that year, but exports of both advanced. Ontario led other provinces in the supply of both canned fruit and canned vegetables. Quebec is the only other province for which separate information is published, and this indicates that canning activity in Quebec is devoted much more largely to vegetables than to fruits.

The output of canned fruits of all kinds in the Dominion in 1932 was 1,272,334 cases, compared with 784,833 cases in 1931. Of canned vegetables and soups the output last year was 5,411,562 cases, against 7,248,381 cases in 1931. It is estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, from a study of the returns received, that the figures given include over 95 per cent of the total production of canned fruits and vegetables in Canada. A new feature of the report just published is that for the first time it contains information as to the weight of the pack as well as of the number of cases packed.

Pears led other varieties in the pack of fruits, both in the number of cases and in the weight of the pack. The number of cases, of pears reported was 374,075 with a weight of 182,183 pounds. Peaches came second in number of cases, but apples in weight.

Tomatoes held first place in the pack of vegetables, with soups second and peas third. This order is based on cases, weights placing beans third, though beans ranked much lower in the number of cases.

Though imports of canned fruits and vegetables showed a marked decline, increase in the exports of these commodities was large. Imports of canned vegetables in 1932 totaled 3,081,024 pounds, compared with 3,424,603 pounds in 1931. Canned fruits imported last year were 11,523,885 pounds, against 13,526,224 pounds in the previous year.

The Japanese Tank Corps and Machine Gun Corps which are taking a prominent part in the advance into Jehol are of recent formation.

Single Men For Air Force

Australian Government Prefers Them For Several Reasons

The Federal Government of Australia wants its air force personnel composed of young, unmarried men and the reasons are psychological and commercial.

It is pointed out that the experience has been that single men are likely to accept the hazards of aviation with less misgiving than men who are under the responsibility of supporting wife and family. For that reason particularly, it is believed the single men display more nerve and are likely to make a better record where desperate risks must be accepted.

The other consideration is that dependent of married men have claims for compensation in the case of death or injury of the married aviator and Australia's finances are not such as to justify extra outlay.

Canada's Mineral Production

"Canada's mining industry today depressed as it is by world conditions, still remains one of the brightest spots in our industrial life," stated Dr. Charles Camsell, Deputy Minister of Mines, in his address before the Canadian Ceramic Society in convention at Ottawa recently. He stated that the value of Canadian mineral production in 1932 was over $180,000,000, it provided employment for over 65,000 workmen, with a total pay roll of over $90,000,000.

Wheat Export Prospects

Canada Expected To Greatly Improve Her Position During Coming Year

Canada will in all probability greatly improve her wheat export position in 1932-33, as compared with the previous year, the monthly review of the wheat situation, issued by the department of trade and commerce, says. Scarcity of wheat in Russia and partial failure of the Danube crop are given as grounds for this prediction.

In the present crop year to date, Russian and Danubian shipments have amounted to only 18,000,000 bushels, with the prospect that no more than an additional 5,000,000 bushels will be shipped to the end of July, 1933. This would require of the non-European wheat-producing countries an export of about 640,000,000 bushels for the whole crop year, or about the same as in the preceding year.

The report estimates the new Australian crop at 200,000,000 bushels, with a surplus of 150,000,000 bushels for current export. Of this, 101,000,000 bushels has already been exported.

Argentina's estimate is 236,000,000 bushels, leaving 126,000,000 bushels for current export. Of that a total of 57,000,000 bushels has still to be exported.

War Buildings Being Made Into Aerodrome

Were Erected At Southampton For Assembling U.S. Planes

The great collection of corrugated iron and brick known as Atlantic Park, which the traveller in England beholds just before the train reaches Southampton, is to be sold to the corporation as a municipal aerodrome.

The buildings were put up during the war to serve as an assembly place for United States aeroplanes which were landed in parts at Southampton. Some time after peace was declared the Canadian Pacific, and other companies interested in the North Atlantic trade, made a joint purchase of the property and used it for a considerable time for the transitory accommodation of migrants to Canada and the United States. Since migration ceased the buildings have been more or less derelict.

All-Water Freight Service

Regular monthly all-water freight service between Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Montreal and Vancouver and British Columbia points via the Panama Canal will be started next month by a new Canadian steamship company formed for the purpose.

ESTIMATED COST OF FARMERS' AID FUND IS GIVEN

Ottawa, Ont.—Cost of the agricultural stabilization fund to the federal treasury will be more than $6,000,000, but less than $10,000,000, dependent on the volume of business in the commodities affected on currency exchanges, said Premier R. B. Bennett.

The Prime Minister made this estimate in the House of Commons when questioned about the fund by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition. Mr. King asked why provision for the fund should be made in the relief bill then before the House since it was not a relief measure, but a bonus or subsidy.

"It is not a bonus or a bounty in the ordinary sense of those words," said Mr. Bennett. "It is properly a relief measure and is consequent on the low price of farm products and the depreciation of the currency of the country to which they are chiefly exported."

The relief bill provided for farm as well as unemployment relief. Mr. Bennett went on. The low prices of farm commodities made relief necessary. The stabilization scheme would provide relief for the farmers by improving prices for the commodities it applied to, and providing security against exchange fluctuations.

Hitler In Command

As Passed Granting Nazi Chief Four Years of Dictatorial Power

Berlin, Germany.—The reichstag, with only the Socialist opposing, passed an empowering act granting Chancellor Hitler's demand for four years of dictatorial power.

Chancellor Hitler, shouting above the cheers of his Nazi deputies, demanded four years of dictatorial power.

He relegated the issue of the monarchy to the background, lifted the destruction of Communism to the fore of his program, reiterated the familiar Nazi thesis of arms equality for all and promised a campaign of "barbaric severity" against all traitors.

Wave after wave of applause and cheers drowned his voice from time to time. The Nazis, who control the House, especially approved his dictum that, once adjourned, the reichstag would be recalled only from time to time "to be informed by the government of its acts when the assent of the reichstag is desirable."

The first big cheer came when he expressed his approval of "public deputation" of the men who set fire to the reichstag building just before the last election. There was tumultuous applause also at his announcement of a campaign of "barbaric severity" against all guilty of treason.

"No gigantic revolution of similar dimensions ever has been carried out with such unvarying discipline and so little bloodshed as our revolution," he cried, and the Nazis cheered again.

He condemned as "an unexampled crime" the 1918 revolution which gave birth to the German republic, now virtually destroyed to make way for the new regimen.

Expect Price Increase

Jam and Marmalade To Cost More, Is Prediction

Hamilton, Ont.—An increase in the cost of jams and marmalades is foreseen by Col. Arnaud Smith, of E. D. Smith and Co., Winona, as a result of the sugar and sales tax on jams. Fifty per cent. of the content of jam is sugar, he said.

Wine will be increased five cents per bottle, said William Alken, prominent grape grower and wine man of Vineland, unless—and he thought this unlikely—the liquor control board absorbs the additional costs caused by the sugar excise tax and that on proof spirits.

Air Station To Be Dismantled

London, Eng.—Howden airship station, in the Yorkshire East Riding, home of the R-10, and during the war, of other airships, is to be pulled down. Howden airship station cost £250,000, and was completed in 1921. The entire buildings cost £750,000.

Follow Canadian Plan

Washington.—Proposals for re-financing United States agriculture and home mortgages along the same general lines as the Canadian system will be sent to congress soon by President Roosevelt.

Peace Club Organization

Premier Of France May Meet Mussolini To Further Plans

Paris, France.—A trip by Premier Eduard Daladier to Italy for a direct discussion with Premier Mussolini may be the next move in efforts to organize a four-power "peace club," it developed here.

The meeting apparently depends on the reaction of Premier Mussolini to the conversations in Paris held by Mr. Daladier and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain. The British and foreign statesmen discussed the Mussolini "peace club" project, which the Italian premier had explained to Mr. MacDonald when the British Prime Minister was in Rome.

Semi-officially it was revealed no plans have been made for the Daladier-Mussolini meeting, which probably would take place in northern Italy. For a number of years the Italian premier has made it a rule not to leave his own country.

In principle the President Hoover to the Mussolini plan, but certain modifications have been asked. The French want the "peace club" to operate within the framework of the League of Nations because they believe they would be able to muster sufficient influence in the league to halt or counteract a possible Italo-German bloc against them.

Wheat Conference

Plans Have Not Yet Been Advanced For U.S. Participation

Washington.—Plans have not yet been advanced for United States participation in a conference of wheat exporting countries, including Canada, seeking grain price stabilization, but this part of President Roosevelt's program of economic rehabilitation by international action was believed to be awaiting congressional consideration of the administration's farm relief formula.

A significant note in the new American government's plan to restore trade normalcy through reciprocal agreements with customer nations was Secretary of State Hull's announcement that just as soon as congress has completed work on emergency domestic relief legislation, the president will request blanket authority to negotiate understandings involving exchanges of tariff privileges, lowering of embargo restrictions and removal of other barriers to reciprocal commerce.

Meanwhile, the wheat conference was awaited as a remedy to the existing acute world condition in which exporting countries hold vast surpluses while countries normally considered as wheat importers do not buy.

Home Rule For Canada

Premier Brownlee Of Alberta Would Give Canada Right To Amend Constitution

Edmonton, Alberta.—Full right for Canada to amend her own constitution, giving home rule in every sense of the term, is proposed in an amendment which Premier Brownlee moved to a resolution under debate in the legislature here.

The amendment was to a resolution moved by Col. F. C. Jamieson, Conservative, Edmonton, who proposed that the provincial government endeavor to make an agreement with the Dominion that no request for an amendment to the B.N.A. would be made without the consent of this assembly.

A Narrow Escape

Little Girl Ran Over By Train, But Is Uninjured

Didsbury, Alberta.—Two-year-old Clara Klein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Klein of Didsbury, was run over by a train, but is alive and uninjured although badly frightened.

The child was walking on the railway tracks when a train approached. Terrified, she started to run but stumbled and fell.

The engineer applied the brakes. The engine, however, passed over the little girl.

Members of the train crew tumbled hastily from the cars and found Clara beneath the coal-tender. The child was slightly hysterical but had escaped without a bruise.

Starting Bank Probe

Ottawa, Ont.—The government will set to work at once to set up the royal commission to investigate the Canadian banking system and consider the pros and cons of arguments in favor of a central banking system. The commission was confirmed in the budget speech of Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, in the House of Commons.

Treatment Of German Jews

Canadian Delegation Asks Premier Bennett To Investigate Trouble

Ottawa, Ont.—Jewish members of the House of Commons, consisting of S. W. Jacob, A. A. Heaps and Samuel Factor, waited on the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister, and Minister for External Affairs, asking, on behalf of Canadian Jews, that steps be taken to ascertain the nature of the mistreatment alleged to have been suffered by German Jews since the Hitlerite government came into power.

The Prime Minister received the delegation sympathetically and undertook to communicate with Dr. Oscar Skelton, under-secretary of state for external affairs, who is in London, asking for a complete report on the situation.

The delegation took the view that Canada, being a member of the League of Nations, of which Germany is also a member, and that as racial and religious rights are safeguarded by the league, appropriate action could be taken by that body to preserve Jewish rights, which, it is claimed, are being attacked by the Hitlerite forces.

MANY SIGNS OF WORLD RECOVERY ARE IN EVIDENCE

London, Eng.—In an optimistic speech in the House of Commons, Neville Chamberlain said he could not see why the world economic conference would not be held within the next two or three months.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has been charged with being too pessimistic in recent months, but this speech found him in a different mood.

"Looking over the world," he declared, "one can see indications the industrial situation is likely to improve within the next few months."

Mr. Chamberlain also found comforting portents in the United States and in Europe. "Confidence has largely been restored in the United States and on the European continent, and where the situation a few months ago was considered desperate, any one can see there have been remarkable beneficial changes."

Mr. Chamberlain looked to the restoration of export trade as the best aid to recovery in the United Kingdom. "Trade had been hampered by excessive tariffs, exchange regulations and prohibitive quotas, he asserted."

Although there had been stagnation in some sections of British trade, there had also been considerable activity in others. For instance the first two months of this year had seen automobile exports equal both in number and value the exports of three months of last year.

One brief, but vital reference was made by Mr. Chamberlain to the domestic employment situation. "The policy of aiding unemployment by instituting relief works," he said, "has been tried, but it failed. We don't intend to resume it."

THE SOUTH ATLANTIC'S FIRST FLOATING AERODROME

The Norddeutsche Lloyd liner "Westfalen," of 5,000 tons, has been converted into a floating aerodrome and is to be placed in the South Atlantic Ocean for the use of pilots on the way to and from South America, from Africa. Our picture shows the catapult on board the "Westfalen" for starting flying boats.

SITS WITH LEAGUE

A recent photograph of Hugh R. Wilson, United States Minister to Switzerland, who has been named as the United States representative who will sit at the League of Nations deliberations on the Far Eastern trouble. Although the United States will not vote, nor will it bow in advance to League decisions, it will cooperate with other nations in endeavoring to find a solution to the Sino-Japanese tangle.

Large Conversion Loan

Opportunity May Be Presented To Canadian Bondholders In The Fall

Ottawa, Ont.—A large conversion loan is expected to be laid before Canadian bondholders early in the fall but it is unlikely any issue will be offered before that time, it is learned here. In his budget speech, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, forecast a conversion loan "at the opportune time."

The heaviest obligations of the government mature as a rule late in the fall and this year it is understood the funding requirements will be in excess of $300,000,000.

Canadian Banks Sound

Chartered Bank Comes Through Run Without Assistance

Ottawa, Ont.—One of the chartered banks of Canada came through a "run" in which $10,000,000 in deposits were withdrawn, without the aid of assistance from other banks or from the Dominion government, Premier R. B. Bennett told the House of Commons.

The Premier mentioned this as an instance of the soundness of Canadian banks when his government was charged with unfairness in not coming to the aid of the Manitoba savings office last year.

Alberta Redistribution

Edmonton, Alberta.—Alberta government will inquire into redistribution of provincial ridings if the legislature adopts a resolution introduced by Hon. O. L. McPherson, Minister of Public Works. Quite a reduction in the number of legislative members would result, it was stated, if such an inquiry was held.

Continue Relief Plan

Minister Of Labor Replies To Question Of Opposition Leader

Ottawa, Ont.—The Dominion Government will continue to do in the future what it has done in the past year with regard to unemployment relief, with Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, told the House of Commons. The minister was replying to a question in which Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition, asked whether "apart from the dole, the minister had any comprehensive, co-ordinated plan to announce to the House dealing with unemployment relief."

The government's policy was that moneys would be devoted first to assisting the provinces where they were unable to take care of their own people, said the minister. The government would help the provinces to protect any schemes which they may conceive or which the Dominion may conceive within the financial limitations of the governments to provide employment or take care of direct relief.

Mr. Gordon believed the situation was not getting worse. He knew there were people who would be gratified to see things on the downgrade and thus fulfill their own prophecies. However, the Dominion government would not invade the jurisdiction of the provinces.

Wins Air Trophy

Edmonton Flyer Awarded Recognition For Meritorious Service

Ottawa, Ont.—Maurice Burbridge, instructor of the Edmonton Flying Club, has been awarded the trans-Canada trophy for meritorious services to aviation during 1932, according to an announcement issued recently from the headquarters of the National Defence Department. Mr. Burbridge is the sixth winner of the trophy, annual award of which began in 1927.

Mr. Burbridge joined the Royal Flying corps in 1916. He was appointed instructor to the Edmonton Flying Club in 1929, and to his energy and leadership has been attributed the outstanding record of that organization.

Frowns On Lotteries

Premier Bennett Says Winnings Should Be Forfeited To Crown

Ottawa, Ont.—Expressing the opinion that the winnings of all lotteries should be forfeited to the crown, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, in the House, voiced his "strongest opposition" to anything that would stimulate speculation among the Canadian people. Mr. Bennett was winding up a brief discussion on the bill amending the criminal code respecting lotteries, sponsored by P. F. Casgrain (Lib., Charlevoix-Saguenay). The bill was talked out.

GOVERNMENT TO STUDY PLANS FOR IDLE INSURANCE

Ottawa, Ont.—The House of Commons took the first step to extend for another year the government's unemployment relief legislation and clothe the administration with wide powers to deal with the "peace, order and good government" of the country. Without recorded division, a resolution was passed instructing the government to bring in the relief legislation, climaxed a week or more of debate.

The government is gathering data on a contributory unemployment insurance scheme, but every turn collides with the constitutional rights of the provinces. Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, told the House. It will be necessary for the provinces to surrender some legal rights before a nation-wide scheme is possible, added Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice.

At the recent Dominion-provincial conference, continued Mr. Guthrie, the provinces declined to surrender their legal powers over insurance and were opposed to an amendment to the British North America Act to enable the Dominion to act alone.

Before any federal scheme could be established, the Dominion must have power to compel employees and employers to contribute to the central fund—a power now vested in the provinces.

The Dominion placed no detailed insurance scheme before the provinces at the conference, the labor minister said, discussion ranging around the constitutional issues at stake. Until that barrier was removed, details were impossible.

CHURCHILL RAPS FOREIGN POLICY OF MACDONALD

London, Eng.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, facing the House of Commons for the first time since his Rome peace conversations with Premier Benito Mussolini, of Italy, ran into bitter opposition from Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, former Conservative Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Mr. MacDonald sought to assure the House of what he regarded as the soundness of the Munich "peace club" plan and of his belief that, with slight redrafting, the British and the Mussolini plans might be made to coincide. His speech brought cheers from the government benches, but roused Mr. Churchill to a bitter attack on the whole British foreign policy.

For four years, the former chancellor said, the Prime Minister had directed the nation's foreign policy, and yet the United Kingdom was nearer war than before.

He described the conversations Mr. MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon had, with the Italian premier as a visit to "Don Quixote and Sancho Panza."

He contemptuously scored methods of the world disarmament conference as "measuring swords at Geneva" and as "a fertile advertisement of all the apparatus of war." France, he maintained, could not support the British disarmament plan which the Prime Minister and Sir John delivered in an effort, generally considered at least partially successful, to rouse the conference to renewed activity.

Mr. Churchill attacked that portion of the MacDonald plan which called for reorientation of army effectiveness among European states, including reduction of French forces and increase of those in Germany.

Germany, he declared, was going through "a tumultuous insurrection of ferocity and war spirit" and the extension of "pitiless treatment to minorities" and of "denying normal treatment to civilized society merely on account of race."

Canadian Rifle Team

Congratulated By Governor-General On Their Performance

Ottawa, Ont.—The performance of the Canadian rifle team at Bixley last year placed Canada in "a very proud position." His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General, said in congratulating the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association on a successful year. His Excellency attended the annual meeting of the organization held here.

Indications the riflemen was coming back to his old position of importance in the army were seen by Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, chief of the general staff, who also addressed the meeting.

Major C. R. Crowe, of Guelph, was elected president, succeeding Col. D. R. Street, of Ottawa.

Cut Through Snow Drifts

Use Cross-Cut Saw To Open Up Highway

Fernie, B.C.—The provincial board of works has completed a cut through the gigantic snowdrift on the highway between Fernie and Elko; which came down about the middle of January last year. His Excellency attended the annual meeting of the organization held here.

No Plans For Conference

Washington.—Plans have not yet been advanced for United States participation in a conference of wheat exporting countries, including Canada, seeking grain price stabilization, but this part of President Roosevelt's program of economic rehabilitation by international action was believed to be awaiting congressional consideration of the administration's farm relief formula.

Radio Centralization

New York.—Canadian independent radio broadcasting companies will probably be drawn into a centralized corporation patterned after the British model. Major M. E. Gladstone Murray, public relations counsel of the British Broadcasting Corporation, prophesied on his arrival here recently.
